If one be south and the other north add them if they are both subtracting

8 every day

if sun bearing North your Zenith distance is south if sun bears south your Zenith distance be north latitude is south if it is South your latitude will be North [illegible]

Your Zenith distance and declination when they are of the same name add them but if one is N. and the other S. subtract the less from the greater and call the latitude by the same name as the greater also look out when the declination is changing from S. to N.
